7 DAY FACULTY DEVELOPMENT PROGRAMME

ON

“RESEARCH METHODOLOGY & WRITING RESEARCH PAPER”

Organised by

Department of English, Paradip College, Paradip.

The Department of English organized a 7 Day Faculty Development Programme on “Research Methodology and Writing Research Paper” from 20th December 2020 to 27th December 2020. The programme was moderated by Miss Saswati Pattnaik. The said programme was inaugurated on 20.12.2020 by Prof. (Dr) Surendra Mohan Mishra, Rtd. Principal, Paradip College, Paradip, who graced the occasion as Chief Guest. Dr Suprema Kanungo, Principal of the college welcomed the invited dignitaries and other participants. This was followed by an introductory speech, by the HOD of English and co-ordinator of this programme, Sri Ganeswar Patra, who highlighted the objectives of the FDP. Sri Ganeswar Patra introduced the Chief Guest of the inaugural session, Prof. (Dr) Surendra Mohan Mishra. Dr Mishra spoke on the relevance of research as well as the necessity of FDP. Most of the staff members of our college participated in the programme. Mrs Pravati Panda delivered the vote of thanks for the occasion.

In the technical session of the first day, that is 20.12.2020, Prof. (Dr) Pralip Kumar Narzary, PG Department of Geography, Bodoland University, virtually engaged the session on “Exposure to software package – SPSS and others”. The session was moderated by Miss Saswati Pattnaik. Dr Narzary conducted the session with power point presentation to the satisfaction of all the participants. The session was highly interactive. The vote of thanks for the session was provided by Mrs Pravati Panda. This was followed by a second session, post lunch break, in which, Prof. (Dr) Asima Ranjan Parhi, HOD, Department of English, Utkal University, Vani Vihar, graced the occasion as the resource person. Miss Saswati Pattnaik was the moderator of the session. Dr Parhi delivered an enlightening talk on “Research in Humanities”, through power point presentation. The focal point of his lecture was, even though, the subjects of humanities do not provide the scope of conducting experiments in laboratory, their insights on theory of research can be approached pragmatically, which adheres to objectivity, systematicity and empiricism. Thus, he argued against the general assumption that research in science is superior to research in humanities. Mrs Pravati Panda delivered the vote of thanks for the session.

The second day, that is 21.12.2020, witnessed the honorary presence of Prof. Nigamananda Das, of Nagaland University, as the resource person. He deliberated on “Introduction to Research, literature review, identification of research problem, synopsis writing. His analysis on the fundamentals of research was beneficial to all the participants. He compiled to all questions and queries of all the participants. The session was moderated by Saswati Pattnaik and Mrs Pravati Panda gave the vote of thanks.

The third day of the FDP, that is 22.12.2020, was virtually engaged by Dr Krushna Chandra Mishra, Associate Prof of English, Rajiv Gandhi Central University, Arunachal Pradesh, on “Formulation of Research Questions, Research hypothesis, Sampling framework”. The session was critically enlightening and was highly appreciated by the participants. It was quite an interactive session and the participants expressed their queries with zest. They appreciated the dissective approach of the speaker towards research and were benefitted by the fundamental knowledge he shared on research and research paper writing. The session was moderated by Miss Saswati Pattnaik and Mrs Pravati Panda delivered the vote of thanks.

On the fourth day, that is 23.12.2020, Dr Sachidananda Panda, Associate Prof of English, Institute of Science and Information Technology, Bhubaneswar, devoted his valuable time to the FDP by gracing the occasion as the resource person. His outstanding presentation on “Tools and Methods of Data Collection” had a lasting impression on the participants and generated a series of intellectual questions. In addition to throwing light on the above-mentioned topic, he provided a panorama of research in humanities. This session was moderated by Mrs Pravati Panda. Miss Saswati Pattnaik provided the vote of thanks for the session.

The fifth day of the FDP, 24.12.2020, witnessed the esteemed presence of Prof. (Dr) Himansu Sekhar Mohapatra, Rtd Professor and Head of Utkal University, Vani Vihar, Bhubaneswar. He delivered his lecture on “Exposure to Academic Writing & Impactful Research Project Writing, Ethical issues of Research”. His erudite words and conversational tone blended with subtle humor won the hearts of the participants, making the session highly interactive. Prof. Himansu S. Mohapatra, praised the Department of English for undertaking such an educative initiative and encouraged the department to conduct more webinars in future. Mrs Pravati Panda was the moderator of the session. Miss Saswati Pattnaik delivered the vote of thanks on the occasion.

There was no technical session conducted on 25th December as it was observed as Christmas Day. On the following day, that is 26.12.2020, Prof Bhagabat Nayak, P.G. Department of English, Rajiv Gandhi Central University, Arunachal Pradesh, graced the occasion as resource person. He verbalized on “Intertextuality: A Research Technique”. His discourse was intellectually stimulating as well as inspiring and motivating for the participants. This session witnessed a bust of questions and he addressed each of them. The session was moderated by Miss Saswati Pattnaik and Mrs Pravati Panda provided the vote of thanks for the occasion.

On the last day of the FDP, that is 27.12.2020, Dr Sasmita Rout, Assistant Professor of Geography, Fakir Mohan University, Balasore, Odisha, was invited as a resource person. The session was moderated by Miss Saswati Pattnaik. Dr Sasmita Rout engaged the virtual session on “Research paper writing, plagiarism, Copy Right, Indexing & Citation of journals referencing & referencing styles”. Her power-point presentation was critically appealing and perfectly designed to meet the demands of the FDP. Participants were quite enthusiastic and put forth their queries which were satisfactorily answered. Mrs Pravati Panda delivered the vote of thanks for the session. The technical session came to an end at 1:00 pm.

In the same day Valedictory session was conducted. The session was moderated by Ms. Saswati Pattnaik, the Faculty member of English Department, Paradip College, Paradip. Sri S.G.Jena, Sr. Lect. in Chem. was invited as the guest on the occasion. Sri G.Patra, Coordinator of the Programme briefed the session & verbal feedback was collected from the Participants on virtual mode. Dr. Deepika Rupert Gardener, Associate Prof. BVRIT Hyderabad college of Engineering for women & Dr. Devidutta Das Asst. Prof. of the Same Institute gave their positive feedback. Similarly, Mr. Managovinda Patra, HOD English, M.S. College, Baramba & Saswata Mishra, Lect. in English from Aska Sc. College Gangam gave their constructive feedback on the occasion. REPORT ON “CATCH THE RAIN” ORGANISED BY EBSB

Ek Bharat Shrestha Bharat (EBSB) club, Paradip College, Paradip, conducted one day webinar on “Catch the Rain”, pertaining to the macroscopic theme of “Rain Water Harvesting”, on 7th May 2021. This webinar was organized as the result of one of the initiatives undertaken by National Water Mission (NWM), Ministry of Jal Shakti, Government of India; to spread awareness on water conservation and to adopt suitable techniques for its successful conversation with minimum available resources and maximum filtration.

The club was graced by the honorable presence of, Dr Sibani Basumatari, Asst. Prof. PG Department of Geography, Bodoland University, Kokrajhar, Assam, as the resource person of the webinar. The Principal of Paradip College delivered the welcome address at the commencement of the webinar, highlighting the importance of such programmes and the need of awareness among people in the trying times of water scarcity. Mr Ganeswar Patra, Head of the Department of English and Co-ordinator, EBSB Club of Paradip, gave a splendid introduction to the resource person of the webinar and the dignified guests. He conveyed to the participants the significance and objectives of the webinar stressing on the fact that such themes must be taken serious in the view of public welfare and development of the nation. Ms Saswati Pattnaik, Lecturer in English and member EBSB, presented the annual report on the activities of the club, since its inception in the college. The report reflected the sincerity, zeal, commitment and mettle of all the members of the club.

Dr Sibani Basumatari contributed immensely to the benefit of the webinar by giving justice to its theme and objectives. Dr Basumatari effectively presented her talk through the medium of power point presentation and was au courant with the latest techniques of water conservation. She tailored her words skillfully to elaborate the different procedures of rain water harvesting and other traditional methods of water conservation, while maintaining clarity of expression in her verbosity for the sake of students. Her wordings deliberately focused on the fact that priority to the issue of water conservation will lead to adopt an integrated approach towards water management. Her sincerity towards the theme and deliberation on the topic was quiet evident from her humble request to the members of the club to initiate rain water harvesting in the college as well as to take steps for inception of water conservation models in their area or village. At the end of her speech, the participants were allowed to put forth their queries and comments to the guest speaker. This session on questions and answers was moderated by Ms Abhilipsa Das, Lecturer in Physics, EBSB member, Paradip College, Paradip. The session was quite interactive and Dr Basumatari answered all questions to the satisfaction of all concerned members.

After the completion of question and answer session, Mr Bramhrananda Biswal, Head of the Department of Philosophy and member of EBSB, extended the vote of thanks for the occasion. The entire programme was moderated by Mrs Saswati Swagatika, Lecturer in Economics and member of EBSB club Paradip College, Paradip. Almost all the teachers of Paradip College, members of EBSB, and other participants from educational institutions across the state, voiced their appreciation for the webinar through comments in the virtual medium of Google Meet. They found the webinar enriching and productive in relation to its theme "Catch the Rain". The webinar was successful in its twain purpose of serving as public awareness and providing the impetus and encouragement to go for rain water harvesting, to avoid water crisis. Thus the webinar was a successful endeavour, undertaken by the EBSB club, to meet the demands of present problems in water conservation. The feedback for the webinar was obtained within a stipulated time and E-certificates were issued to all concerned members.
